Goal line proof/Technology

This is a system of cameras that are installed at the cross-bar of each of the goals, offering a perfect view on the goal line from 3 different angles. These pictures are accessible for the referees on a TV-screen next at the support table. On their request only the referees can consult the pictures if they are not completely sure whether a ball has actually crossed the goal line or not. Goal referee has to stop the time immediately indicating a square with the fingers, then direct himself to the video on the support table behind the officials table and take the adequate decision. This system will be used here for the first time. It is anyway now years that it is in use for EHF top indoor event, same company, therefore it is not new and well-known.
