3rd Beach Handball Coaches' Course

28th – 31st May 2009 in the Municipality of Meliti (Issos), Greece

The island of Corfu

Corfu (Kerkyra) is an island in the Northern Ionian Sea, situated in the entry of the Adriatic sea and near the coasts of the Continent. It is the second largest island in the group known as the Ionian Greek islands. The beaches have a total length of 217 km forming many bays and capes. It has a mountainous terrain mainly in the northern part, with its highest peak being Pantokratoras (914m).

The capital of the island, the city of Kerkyra, constitutes the administrative, economic, commercial and cultural centre of the island and today has a population of 25.000 residents, the employment of whose is concentrated in the tertiary and service sectors, trade and tourism. The Old City of Kerkyra is a monumental ensemble, unique for Greece. Since 2007, the Old City of Kerkyra, with the Old and New Fortress, is found in the international list of the World Cultural Heritage of UNESCO, as a separate architectural and monumental ensemble that represents an important historical period.

Having decided to visit Corfu, one of the most interesting Greece's islands, prepare yourself for an unparalleled experience. An amalgam of natural beauties traditional villages and features and archaeological sites. Is the island of miracles and wonders, where every moment the scene changes without affecting the harmony of the terrain. Visitors of Corfu Greece will not know what to admire first: The natural beauties of the island, the picturesque of the city and villages or the wide variety of the magnificent bays and beaches that gather thousands of tourists every year?

The eastern coasts offer a calm sea and a wide range of marine sports. The western coasts offer vast sandy beaches and some fascinating bays, shaping among the rocky cliffs that actually come down to the sea. But in Corfu there is also a lot more to see. Several museums and Byzantine churches, archaeological monuments and Venetian fortresses, impressive landscapes, a superb inland that offers itself for carefree strolls on traditional paths, excellent views from the mountain of Pantokratoras where one is able to scan the sea and see the islands of Erikousa, Othoni and Mathraki, the Albanian coast, Paxoi, Antipaxoi and – if the visibility is good – the coastline of Italy. As for the entertainment, there are plenty of restaurants, bars and clubs to satisfy catholic tastes. Whatever one may choose one thing is for sure: Anyone who visits the amazing island of Corfu will have a pleasant and creative stay.

The site: Issos beach (39°25'55.47" N, 19°55'53.30" E)

The beach of Issos is situated at 32 kilometres south of Corfu town and is a popular place, especially for people who like sandy beaches. The beach is about 2 kilometres long and 35 metres wide. The region of the coast of Issos has been included in Natura (Natura 2000) and has been characterised officially as forestall in the context of the existence of rare natural beauties); therefore, the only infrastructure here is the Municipal facilities. The beach is awarded by a Blue Flag, it is organized and offers sunbeds, snack bar, toilets, changing rooms, showers and lifeguard. Perfect place for families with children, young and all romantic couples.

Surrounded by sand dunes you feel more like you are in Sahara desert rather than in the greenest island of Greece. For those who love nature and tranquility this is the pure paradise. The dunes, the cedar forest and the lagoon are interesting to explore on foot, paying a little effort which will be rewarded with a unique and wonderful landscape. One must not miss the sunset over the dunes! It is a once in a lifetime experience!

Issos is not a resort. It is a very beautiful beach, perfect for sandy beach lovers and windsurfers. The beach is famous for kitesurfing, windsurfing, paragliding and beach sports (beach handball, beach soccer). Vast amount of information can be found on the internet (search for "Issos" or in the Meliti Cup website www.meliticup.gr).
